

LOGICALIS' APPLICATION DEVELOPMENT TEAM CAN HELP TRANSFORM YOUR APPLICATIONS INTO SERVICES THAT LINK ALL THE RIGHT PEOPLE TOGETHER, CREATING VALUE AND EFFICIENCY.

APPLICATION DEVELOPMENT

Competition in the marketplace requires the rapid development of innovative new applications that provide improved user experience and workflow, while transforming and integrating legacy applications with best practices backed by service and message-based architectures.

More than just a means of managing isolated business workflows, today's applications are expected to increase collaboration, provide process governance, deliver accountability, and produce efficiencies while generating a measureable return.

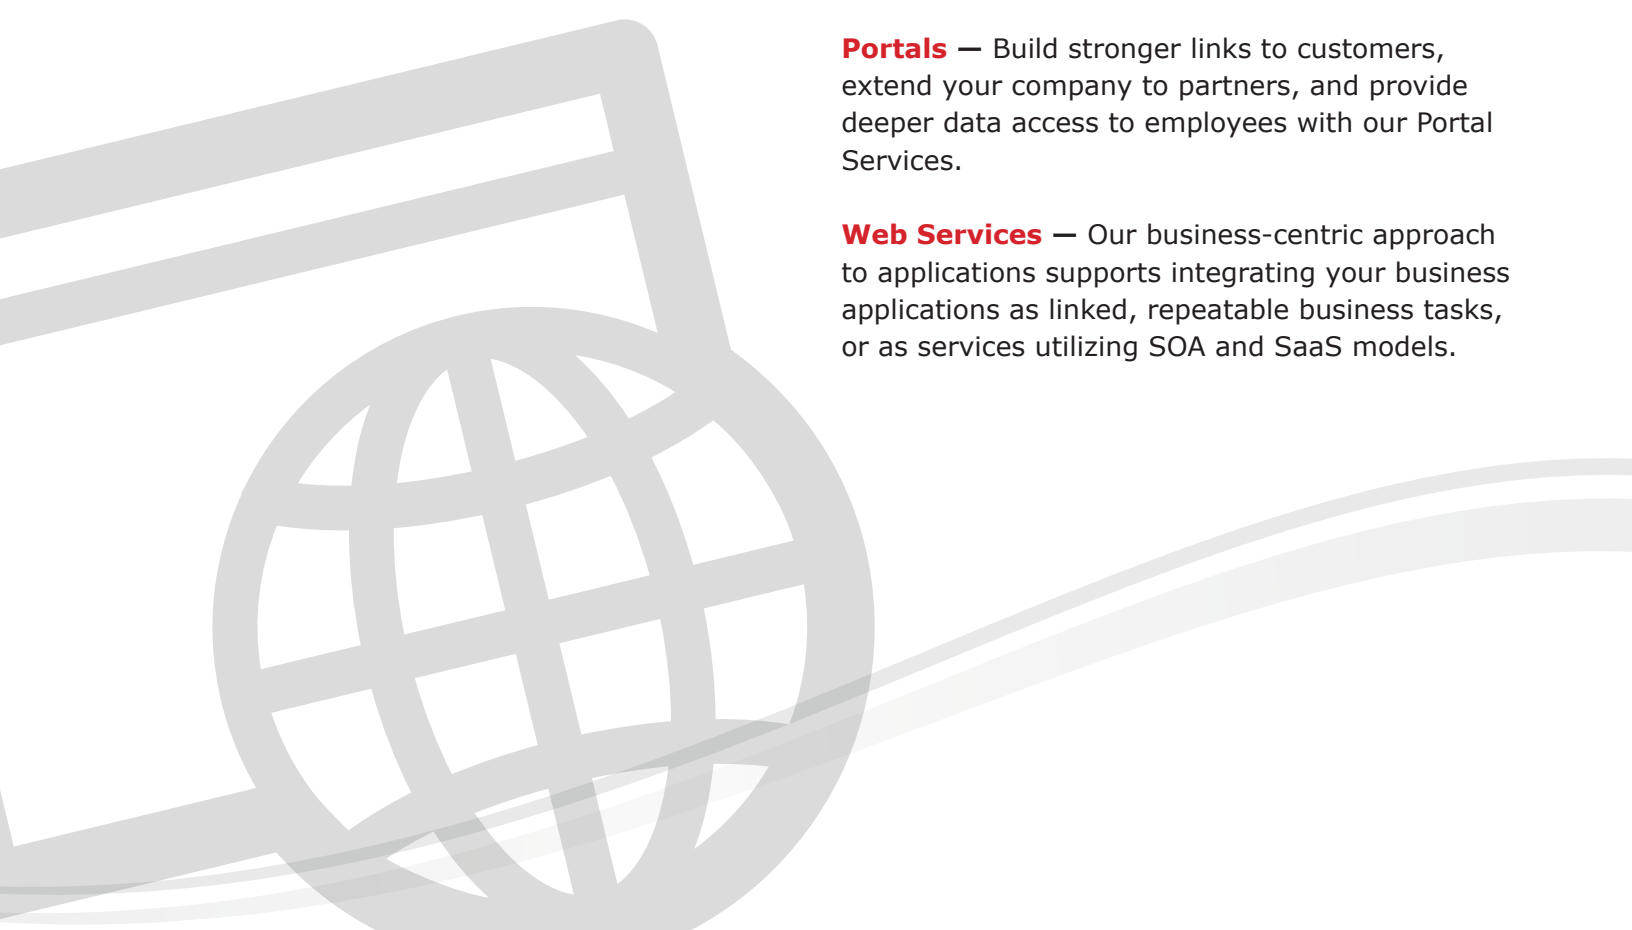

We take a service-oriented, vendor-agnostic approach to application development and offer an array of focus areas to ensure you receive high-value that fits your environment.

Our Application Development Service is part of our larger Application Service, which includes the following:

Business Intelligence — We help you implement data-management strategies that integrate applications and technologies, provide access to data, and give you the ability to analyze this data.

Portals — Build stronger links to customers, extend your company to partners, and provide deeper data access to employees with our Portal Services.

Web Services — Our business-centric approach to applications supports integrating your business applications as linked, repeatable business tasks, or as services utilizing SOA and SaaS models.

“I’ve worked with contractors before who are pretty rigid. These guys [Logicalis] really collaborated. Most people would have thought they were full-time employees. They contributed so much to who we are...it was priceless.”

Michelle Saro, Vice President of Digital Media, SeaMobile
